information from his remarks. Mr. Kyles then read his paper, printed

among the audience, illustrating his remarks as he went along by patterns he had made himself and drawings of his own designing, and also by detailed descriptive explanations. His ideas were the practical common sense views of a thorough and experienced workman, and must have been of great value to his listeners. He discassed briefly the principal tools used by the enginaer in building and care of his machinery. and gave many practical hints for the workman that can only be learnt from a man who has passed through the long and severe discipline of years of intelligent practical work in a large aschine shop. A. very interesting illustration given by Mr. Kyles was a model be had built of tauce. a primitive lathe from the earliest ages. In 1889. Peer Bux, milkman, charged Sawan Khan, the Government decided to put an end to this The Colonial Surgeon-I think, as this is a bandsman of the it. K. Regiment, with assault. state of things, and to place the question on a the principle, on which the transfer of the Settlements was accepted by the Fovernment in 1.1866, that it was entitled to look to the colony for the whole cost of its Garrison, it confined itself, as regarded the then current year and the four succeeding years, to a demand which amounted to an average charge of £99 000 a year, that. is. £89,951 for 1849 and £100,000 for each succoeding year, plus $3,000 per annum military lodging allowance for all five yaars, although the total estimated cost of the Garrison exceeded £136,000. An intimation was at the same time given that thereafter the Colony must expect that the charge on its Revenue would be enhanced. The latest returns of Colonial Revenue before the Government were those of 1883, which showed all China ponies; weights as per scale; on receipts amounting to $3,858,909, whilst the Treasury rates of exchange for 1889 indicated . that such a contribution as was then demanded a forced entry for Amoy subscription grifflus might probably by discharged by an annual of this season; first pony to receive 70 per payment of $650,000 a year, or about 17 per cent. 2nd 20 per cent. and 3rd 10 per cent. | cent. of the bolonial Revenue: In the event. it proved that the average annual Revenue was $3,973,000, whilst the Military Contribution second pony $50; for all China ponies; weights | was discharged by an average payment of about

> 7 .-- As regards the whole quinquennial period therefore, the burden was slightly less onerous than that which the Government contemplated In the latter months of that period, however, the conditions began to change so rapidly, in direction a verse to the Colony, that on examining them Har Majesty's Government came to the conclusion that the Straits Settlements had in the words used by Mr. Goschen in the House of Commons during the Debate of 1891. 11.—I will not attempt to forecast in any detail the finances of the years beyond 1895, but Her Majesty's Government consider that they are not over-sanguine in anticipating that there will be a moderate increase, under various heads, in the receipts of each year, and that by a steady application of the principles of economy recently formulated by the Retrenchment Committee, the necessary civil charge may be kept down to something like $3,000,000 a year. It seems, therefore, not too much to hope that the Colony may be able to provide for the Military Contribution and all civil charges without incurring a deficit not won a race at this meeting; weights as per on the quinquennial period, and that there will even be a balance on the period as a whole, which balance, together with what remains of existing Colonial balances, the Colony may be able to devote to some extent to the construction of the $15 extra, of more than two races $30 extra; new barrack accommodation, rendered necessary by the ingressed and consentrated Garrison of Singapore, for, as I need hardly explain, the obligation of the Colony in respect to Military 350 added; second pony $25; for all beaten lands and buildings must, in the view of Her Amoy subscription griffins of this season; Mojesty's Government, continue, as it has explained in Lord Knutsford's despatch of the 13th

The Britade formed up in quarter column and advanced in raview order, after which t was ordered to form three sides of a square General Lance, advancing, addressed the Rifl, frigade to the following effect. He said: Major Pemberton, Non-Commissioned Officers and Men of the 1st Battalion Rifle Brigade,-I regret exceedingly that this is the last time that you will appear on a parade of the troops of the garrison, of which you have formed part for the last two years. On your first arrivalhere, coming as you did from a quiet station in the Himslayas, some irregularities took place. which were soon checked. With this exception the conduct of the battalion has been soldier. like and orderly during its stay in Calcutta. have noticed with great satisfaction the strict attention that has been paid at all times to ever detail of duty, and the general smartness observed by all ranks which has maintained the reputation of the army in Calcutta, among the residents of which there are many intelligent and observant critics who do not fail to notice any of our shortcomings. For myself I can say that neither here nor at Darjeeling, where the bonds of discipline are of macessity somewhat relaxed, have I ever seen in public a Riff man who was not soldierlike in his bearing, and who did not by the smartness of his turn int reflect credit on the army generally. The credit of this is due to Colonel St. Paul, whose absence from parade to-day I much regret, and to the officers by whom he has been so ably assisted; to the non-commissioned officers who have loyally carried out his instructions, and to the pride that exists throughout all ranks in the reputation of the distinguished Regiment to which you belong. It is not uncommon among those who have been long in the service to regret the rarity of old soldiers in the ranks; but if young soldiers ban display the steadiness and efficiency that exists in your Battalion, there is no fear that the British Army of to-day will, when call-$6:9000, involving a charge of a little over older soldiers of past time.
